

Excellence achieved by our external sales team

At our semi-annual company meeting yesterday, the Intertronics Award for Excellence was bestowed upon our external sales team of Paul Whitehead, David Peat and Simon Gibbs. These road warriors spend their days visiting customers, helping them figure out their production needs, and assisting our customers with specifying products delivering productivity enhancements. Their face-to-face relationships with so many of our customers are a big contributor to how we achieve our status of trusted advisors to the technology manufacturing market. All three of the guys have built years of experience and expertise in the market – and their efforts have played a significant role in our consistent double-digit annual growth for almost two decades.
